

CLAXTON HAS PLAN OF CO-OPERATION

He Wants States and Federal Government to Unite Educational Work.

Washington, D. C., September 13.—United States Commissioner of Education Claxton returned to-day from a trip through parts of the Middle West and South, during which he sought the co-operation of State superintendents of education in a plan to have the national and State Departments of Education join hands in some of the work which each is doing. Mutual benefits, he declared, would result.

"The Federal and State Departments of Education," he explained, "have been gathering their statistics independently. My plan is to unify this work and I believe that by doing this both will receive prompter, more complete and better reports. The national Bureau of Education not having any power, other than a moral one, to compel the education officials of the country to furnish the information we desire, our reports often have been slow in appearing. The scheme I have in view doubtless will facilitate matters, and the State, too, I believe, will be helped."

While in Tennessee, Dr. Claxton spoke at the dedication of the first of four normal schools which the State is building.

"A new spirit has arisen in the South in regard to certain educational matters, particularly the question of the need of training for teachers," said Dr. Claxton. "It was believed formerly that any one with an education could teach, whether he knew anything or not about the principles of teaching. This idea has passed away. Tennessee, by native State, was practically the last State in the country to install normal schools. But now that the step has been taken, the State has done nobly, the four cities in which the schools are to be located having contributed more than $1,000,000 to support them."

Counterfeit Half Dollars Made by Convict Found on Other Inmates.

Boston, Mass., September 13.—Counterfeit half-dollar coins alleged to have been manufactured in the State prison sent Miss Johnson, colored, to the Federal prison at Atlanta yesterday for a year and a day, his sentence being pronounced by Judge Dodge in the United States District Court.

The counterfeit coins were found on Johnson in the State prison, where he was serving a term of three years. He was released a few days ago. It is alleged. About 100 coins were found inside and outside of the prison.

SUYDAM WILL NOT SEEK YOUNG WIFE

Deserted Husband Seems Content to Let Her Go Her Way.

He Refuses to Say He Believes Her With Frederick Noble.

New York, September 13.—Walter Linspender Suydam, Jr., the young millionaire of Blue Point, L. I., whose young wife left him last week, says that his wife was very impulsive and temperamental, and he does not intend to make any effort to find her.

Suydam avoids committing himself to any statement that he believes his wife and Frederick Noble, a plumber's son, are together. He has not heard from his wife since a week ago, when Mrs. Suydam disappeared on the day that Noble left Blue Point on an earlier train.

Society Antagonized

Society folk at Blue Point, L. I., and in the fashionable neighborhood surrounding learned with astonishment yesterday that Mrs. Suydam had left her husband and home a week ago yesterday, and that her present whereabouts was not known to her husband.

At the same time it became known that Frederick Noble, son of Harry M. Noble, a wealthy farmer, has had a little cottage at Blue Point for many years, is also missing.

Mrs. Suydam, who was Miss Louise Lawrence White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Jay White, of New York and Washington, is twenty-five years old. She was married to Suydam, who is two years her elder, in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, in this city, in June, 1903. The Sydams are related to the Jays, D. Infields, Linspenders, Sturgeises, Halls, Whites and other old families.

Husband Devoted to Fishing

Young Suydam's father, Walter Linspender Suydam, Sr., gave the young couple a cottage on his estate near Blue Point, and when they were not there they were at the town house in East Seventy-sixth Street. The young husband studied law at New York University, but was advised to abandon his studies and turn to an outdoor life. He devoted himself to fishing in Great South Bay, often taking his young wife with him on his big sport Nemesis.

On one of these fishing trips, six years ago, Mr. Suydam, engaged young Noble, then fifteen years old, to assist in the cooking and work about the house. He was the first time that either Mr. and Mrs. Suydam had ever seen him. After a time Mrs. Suydam grew tired of this kind of life, and when her husband was away on his trips she found solace in social activities. Her husband did not care for society at all, always devoting himself to his outdoor pursuits.

This summer her husband gave her an automobile. She learned to drive it herself, and within the last three months was often seen taking long drives with young Noble, and he was often with her about the neighborhood.

Questioned by Husband

Mr. Suydam, having heard rumors of his wife's actions, is said to have asked her for an explanation, and that night he went to his father's house, where he was living. He was told that she was leaving his wife alone with the servants. He is said to have told her on leaving that he could not live under the same roof with her. He also telegraphed to Mr. and Mrs. John Jay White, his wife's parents, who live in Harbor, Mass., to come immediately to Blue Point.

The next day, a wee kago Sunday, Mrs. Suydam was ill, and she was still in bed when her parents arrived Monday.

Young Wife Leaves

Tuesday the young wife, with the help of her maids, packed all her personal belongings and sent them to New York. Without the knowledge of her husband or parents, according to Mr. Suydam, she took an afternoon train for New York and was not returned. At the cottage last night a maid answered the door bell and said that none of the family was at home. She said that Mr. Suydam was at his father's house.

There he was quite willing to talk of his wife's departure, he said:

"I can give no explanation of why she left, other than the one she gave me—that she loved Noble more than she did me. She has never been from under my roof a single night before, and my knowledge and her leaving is a great shock to me."

"It is true that Noble went automobiling with my wife and was entertained at my house, but he never appeared when I was at home."

"I can't understand why my wife left me. I have loved everything she wanted, and I thought she was happy here. She never complained about a single thing. Her parents could not understand it, either. I have made no attempts so far to find her. I received by mail the mileage book she used on her trip to New York last Wednesday. It was inclosed in an envelope which was in her own handwriting and posted in New York. That is all that I have heard from her. She left no letter."

At the home of the Nobles it was admitted that young Fred Noble had not been home since he was arrested yesterday. His mother, Wallace, said that he had come to Manhattan with him that morning. The family said that they had not had a word from their son since he left.

"NERRY NAT" FLAGG IN JAIL

Just the Place to Lead Simple Life, Says Comic Artist.

Los Angeles, September 13.—"Wouldn't lead the simple life?" If so, according to James Montgomery Flagg, comic artist and illustrator, you must seek the quiet and repose of gray walls. Flagg should know, for he has passed the last three days in the City Jail. He started out last Friday night to see the town, as often did his character, "Nerry Nat." But the police failed to see any humor in the circumstance. "Nerry Nat," in moments of great spiritual exaltation, was wont to make funny remarks to arresting officers, but the character's creator fell flat in his utterances. He told one officer to run away and play marbles with the other boys. The officer led Flagg to the Central station. The artist appeared before Police Judge Chesbro, and was fined $15, which was paid.

POSSE WITH HOUNDS SEEKS KIDNAPPER

Young School Teacher is Abducted and Carried Deep Into the Woods Where She is Held Prisoner by Drunken Ruffian.

Snowflake, Manitoba, September 12.—Mounted police and a posse of 300 armed men, aided in their search by bloodhounds, to-day closed in upon the kidnapper of Miss Eleanor Gladys Brice at a point between here and the international boundary line. The large posse had been on the trail twenty-four hours when the kidnapper, said to be Henry B. Wilcox of Hanna, N. B., escaped into the dense woods.

Search for Miss Brice, who is a niece of Premier Roblin, was begun yesterday morning, when she failed to appear at the Riverdale School, which she has been teaching. There was evidence at the school building of an attack upon the young woman, evident in the committed the previous night, but she could not be found.

Working on the murder theory, bloodhounds were secured. The dogs picked up the trail five miles from Riverdale.

Her Treatment Inhuman.

Last night Miss Brice unexpectedly returned to the Patterson home, near "dale, where she had resided. The young woman was hysterical and bore evidence of having suffered inhuman treatment. It was with great difficulty that she related her experiences.

When Miss Brice failed to appear at the Patterson home Monday night, where she boarded, it was thought she had gone to stay with friends. When she did not appear Tuesday morning a search was started by Frank Patterson, to whom she is engaged to be married.

On entering the schoolhouse the searching party discovered what appeared to be evidence of a desperate struggle. There was blood in many places and fragments of torn clothing. An alarm was immediately raised. On a small bluff about fifteen yards from the schoolhouse parts of the girl's clothing were found, as well as a bottle which had contained whiskey. The return of Miss Brice last evening was dramatic. She was laboring under great excitement, and appeared to be in a dazed condition. Her face was badly battered, where her assailant had repeatedly beaten her.

At one time, she declares, he hit her several times over the head with a whiskey bottle. Miss Brice stated that the ruffian had guarded her for thirty hours with a loaded rifle, and that she had only been able to escape when he told her to go. Suffering intensely from the shock, it was some time before Miss Brice was able to give a clear account of all that happened.

She was seated in the school room, she said, when a man, said to be Henry Wilson, suddenly appeared in the doorway and pointed a rifle at her. The kidnapper told him to shoot. A struggle followed, and Wilson hit the girl over the head with a bottle, and then carried her into the woods.

Travel Deep Into Woods

After a time he compelled her to walk, and they traveled deeper into the woods. Here Wilson lit a fire, and the terrified girl spent the long night with Wilson watching her every move, and threatening to shoot at the first outcry from her. She heard Frank Patterson whistle, but was unable to respond. Wilson drank heavily through the night.

All night long she moved about to keep warm and watching for a chance to escape, but the menacing rifle prevented. Daylight came and Wilson wanted to take her across the river, but she refused to accompany him. By this time, the girl said, Wilson's liquor sickness gave out and the effects of the liquor seemed to wear off. At 7 o'clock he finally consented to allow her to return home.

"Don't go and tell them," was his parting warning. "I'm sorry this happened." Then telling her he intended cutting all the telephone wires in the district, he pressed his capture, he left her and she made her way back to the Riverdale settlement.

WANTS HIS PRESENT BACK.

Jerseyman Who Sent Copper Cent to Nagel Is Offended.

Washington, D. C., September 13.—H. H. Rollman, who lives somewhere in Jersey, has written another letter to Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel. Mr. Rollman recently sent the secretary a copper of 1849 as a token of appreciation.

When the coin arrived Harry Stevenson, Mr. Nagel's secretary, was perplexed. Some one suggested that Mr. Stevenson's perplexity arose from the possibility that the gift of one penny might be looked upon as an attempted bribe.

Mr. Rollman heard of this and sent another letter. It was a warning one. He is hurt and offended, and if the coin is to cause so much trouble in the department he would like to have it returned to him.

RABID DACHSHUND.

Bites Two Boys, Several Dogs, Cats and a Cow at New Rochelle.

New Rochelle, N. Y., September 13.—Henry and Alfred Panelli, young sons of Detective Joseph Panelli, of Fourth Street, several dogs and cats, and one cow were bitten Monday by a rabid dachshund in West New Rochelle.

The dog was shot by the boys' father and the head sent to the New York Board of Health, where an examination of the brain showed indications of active rabies. The police have been unable to find the owner of the dog, and the residents of West New Rochelle have been advised to confine their cats and dogs and keep them under observation for at least three weeks.

The cow that was bitten belongs to an Italian resident, who looked her in his barn and is now buying milk from a dairy.

The Panelli boys, when the report was received from the analysis, at once began to take the Pasteur treatment for hydrophobia.
